

Press Release – Charge4Europe – GIREVE – 5th May 2020

Charge4Europe chooses GIREVE to extend its customers' charging offers

Essen-Paris, 5th May 2020 – Charge4Europe got connected to GIREVE's roaming platform, giving EV drivers access to charging on GIREVE's already connected networks. Providing comprehensive services for commercial EV fleet operators all over Europe from a single source – this is the reason why both eMobility Service Providers: innogy and DKV have created the joint venture Charge4Europe. The European network of charging stations joined GIREVE's platform to increase its coverage. Thanks to this connection, the operator will be able to sign roaming agreements to access the 86,000+ European charging points connected to GIREVE. With this partnership, EV drivers who subscribed to operators using Charge4Europe's solution will have access to more charging points, all across Europe.

"I am convinced that roaming agreements are the key to the Europe-wide supply of e-fleets. For us, the cooperation with GIREVE is an important milestone towards building the largest supply network for e-vehicles in Europe." Christopher Schäckermann, Managing Director of Charge4Europe and DKV's eMobility Director

In order to be able to offer additional solutions for charging at home and at work (@home, @work) to its customers, DKV also has a sales partnership with innogy that extends beyond the terms of the joint venture. This allows DKV customers to order wall-mounted boxes and charging points from the mobility service provider and have them installed at home and at work, with transparent billing via their employer.

“Though Charge4Europe and GIREVE are both operating at a B2B level in the background, this partnership will benefit the end user. We welcome this ambitious project as a new step towards our common goal: a more coherent and seamless experience of charge for EV drivers throughout Europe” Armand Gallet, GIREVE’s Business Development Manager.
